Applicant's election without traverse of Group I, claims 1-19, in the reply filed on 5/8/06 is acknowledged. The IDS's received 1/7/05, 8/9/04, 6/17/04 have been considered and the priority papers received 1/28/04 have been entered.

The abstract is not directed to the presently claimed invention. It is unclear if the copy of the foreign search report in the file is for the present application.

In all occurrences in the claims, see claims 4 and 8, "selected from" is queried as it is not standard Markush terminology.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over each of Song and Zhang.

Song (Dyes and Pigments) entitled "Photophysical Properties of Polyads Containing a Fluorescein Moiety" teaches the same compounds as presently claimed. On page 157 the compounds contain fluorescein, carbazole as an electron donor, electron acceptors such as anthraquinone.

Zhang (J of Photochemistry and Photobiology) entitled "Photoinduced Intramolecular Electron Transfer in an Anthraquinone Fluorescein Carbazole Model" teaches in the abstract, the triad where fluorescein is linked to carbazole linked to anthraquinone.

The claims differ from each of the above references in that they are directed to a method of detecting employing a reagent/indicator where each of the above references teach the same reagent/indicator.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the reagent/indicator of each of the above references for the presently claimed method because using a known reagent/indicator compound for its known function with the expected result would have been obvious. Although the references do not specifically state the disclosed compounds are used in detecting an analyte, one of ordinary skill would expect the function of the compounds is to detect changes in redox status.

Art Unit: 1655

Regarding claims 9-19 directed to the compound including a linker, no function of the linker is claimed and the references teach the same components are linked in some fashion.
